Dear Kevin:

Thank you for your exhilarating and exciting speech last week at the Williamson County Human Resource Management Association meeting. Your approach to handling the pressure we all constantly face is unique and hit the bull's eye of the target for our people. Your value to the organization was immediate and will give us a true return on our investment for the months and years to come.

Your stories are truly remarkable and can not be duplicated by anyone else. Your ability to capture the hearts and minds of the audience was electrifying. You had them right in the cockpit with you working to successfully recover the airplane. I have also had many outstanding comments about not only about the Pressure Cooker Confidence strategies, but also the Success Sir formula you gave. When people follow that formula I am sure they will have the Courage and the Confidence to excel again and again when the chips are down and they are under the toughest of circumstances.

Any group or organization that has you on their program is in for a real treat and also real value to their group's future performance. I know you will continue to stay busy with the important message you have to deliver.

Sincerely,
